Most Arkansas Farmers Having Trouble Planting

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Arkansas farmers are as much as a month late in some localities in preparation for their spring planting, the first weekly weather and crop bulletin of the season said today.

Rains early this week further delayed field work, but strong winds aided in drying the soil, the bulletin said. Work was resumed on well-drained land the latter part of last week.

"A period of warm weather with lots of sunshine is greatly needed for drying out the soil and for stimulating the growth of winter grains, hay crops and pastures," the bulletin said.

The report was based on growing conditions at noon Tuesday.

Land preparation for cotton planting has been "greatly delayed" by wet weather. It is about half complete in a few east-central counties, but only a limited amount of work has been done elsewhere in the delta region.

Small Acreage

Only a small acreage has been prepared for the planting of corn and sorghums, although a few fields of corn have been planted in several counties. Lespedeza and alfalfa seeding has been delayed by frequent rains generally, even though a few fields of lespedeza are up to good stands.

The bulletin said the acreage seeded to alfalfa this spring will be "much below" normal in the northern counties, and lespedeza

Refusal to End Tests Gains Approval

LONDON (UP)—President Eisenhower's refusal to end U.S. nuclear tests was greeted warmly today by most West European newspapers.

The British government and The Times of London, which frequently serves as its mouthpiece, had no immediate comment on the Eisenhower statement.

The liberal Manchester Guardian noted that the President had produced a "reasonably impressive" list of U.S. efforts to limit and abolish nuclear warfare in citing reasons for his stand on tests.

In Rome, the mass-circulation Mondo-Sera commented that the note apparently was intended to "smoke out the Russians."

"America wants to test the real intentions of the Kremlin men," the newspaper said. "Mr. Eisenhower invited them to stop equivocal actions whose propaganda aims are known to all."

Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberation, the major Western radio systems in Europe devoted to broadcasting through the Iron Curtain, relayed full reports on the Eisenhower note to Communist territory.

Finally Lost His Driver's License

LEEDS, England (UP)—Berry V. Goodman, 23, was jailed for six months and disqualified from driving for seven years after a court was told today that within 10 minutes, covering a mile and a half, he:

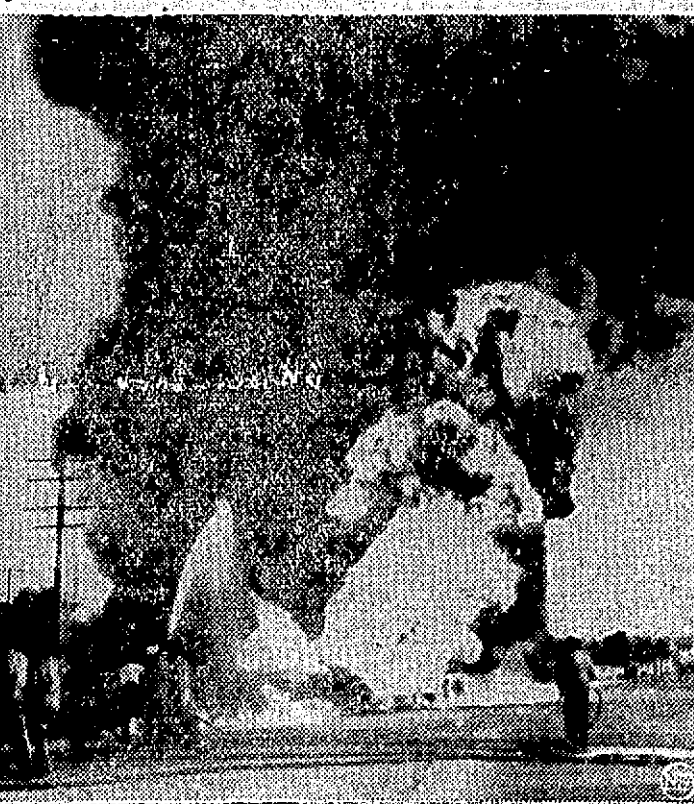

- Drove through three stop-lights.
- Had three collisions with other cars.
- Smashed into a billboard.
- Collided with a gasoline station sign.
- Had already been disqualified from driving.

Precipitation from now until May is expected to exceed seasonal normals along the Atlantic Seaboard and also west of the Continental Divide. Subnormal amounts are predicted for the Great Lakes Region, Upper Mississippi Valley, and southern Texas. In other areas about normal amounts are in prospect.

Temperatures from now until May are expected to average below seasonal normals east of the Appalachians and generally below the southern half of the nation. Above normal averages are indicated over the northern third of the country from the Great Lakes westward to the Pacific coast. Near normal temperatures are expected elsewhere.

Vaccinations for Bang's in Next 2 Weeks

During the next two weeks heifer calves 4 to 8 months of age will be vaccinated for Bang's Disease prevention on Hempstead county farms according to County Agent Oliver L. Adams. The technician, Fred Thompson of the USDA Animal Disease Diagnostic Service, will begin Monday on his schedule of farm visits prepared in the County Agents' office. All cattle owners who need this service at this time should advise County Agent Adams at once. There is no charge for the Bang's vaccination.

Livestock health laws that govern the movement of cattle between states and areas within states require the vaccination of heifers for Bang's Disease. All such cattle to be retained as possible herd replacements on the farms of Hempstead County are to be Bang's vaccinated.

Heifers that will be marketed for fat calf slaughter before reaching the age of eight months need not be vaccinated. The best known way to keep Bang's Disease out of a herd is calfhood vaccination. Cattle owners with questions should advise with the County Agricultural Agent.

Navy Believes Scientists Are Near a Formula Which Will Convert Heat Into Electricity

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Navy believes it is "on the verge of a breakthrough" in efforts to convert heat directly into electricity. If it is, cheap atomic power is on the horizon and the existing conventional power industry faces a revolution.

In testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee, Rear Adm. A. M. Morgan of the Bureau of Ships said:

"We are at the verge of a breakthrough" apparently in conversion of heat to electric power through thermoelectric couples.

Morgan added that "We should have something definite on this in a matter of three years."

In thermoelectric couples two different metals are joined, and one is heated. Electrons then flow from the hot metal to the other, creating an electric current.

Such couples in the form of tiny bars of wires have long been used as temperature gauges and even as weak power supplies. The efficiency of conversion was too low, however, to make them useful on a large scale.

In his testimony released this week, Morgan said:

"In the past we have had such couples but their efficiency has been low, a fraction of 1 per cent. The more sophisticated efforts have gotten up to about 10 per cent."

"We now have a field of endeavor in which if successful will enable us to get efficiencies comparable to those obtained with conventional power plants."

Morgan did not specifically mention atomic energy, but nuclear power enthusiasts dream of finding a way to convert atomic heat directly into electrical power. This would eliminate costly items like heat transfer equipment, boilers, turbines and generators.

Oat Greenbug Severe in Some Fields

Greenbug damage is severe in some fields of oats stated County Agent Oliver L. Adams today. The yellowing or dying spots within a field may be observed. Upon close observation, the heavy colonies or infestations of the greenbug or plant hoppers may be observed. The growing season has been slow for small grain growth thus favoring the insect development.

Where growth of grain is slow and greenbug is threatening the crop, insecticide application may be profitable. One application of the insecticide Malathion at the rate of 1/2 pound actual Malathion per acre is usually sufficient. One pint of 87 percent Malathion emulsifiable concentrate should be used per acre in the amount of water necessary to cover the acre.

NLR Ponders a Youth Curfew

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The North Little Rock city council may adopt a curfew for juveniles and set up a recreational program to fight juvenile delinquency.

Alderman Paul O. Duke said Monday night he will propose an ordinance next week requiring all persons under 18 to be off the streets by 10:30 p. m. Sundays through Thursday and by 12:30 a. m. Friday and Saturdays. He said the ordinance would be similar to the one in effect at Earl Smith.

Mayor William Laman said he would bring in the ordinance outlining for a recreation director and a city-wide recreation program.

The proposals were made after North Little Rock police reported they picked up nine boys 12 to 15 who had stolen several thousand dollars worth of goods in the last few months. Most of the thefts were from homes and cars.

Arguments in Sovereignty Suit Heard

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Pulaski Chancellor Guy E. Williams heard arguments today in a suit by 10 Negro ministers seeking an injunction against operation of the State Sovereignty Commission, created by the 1957 Legislature.

The suit originally attacked the package of four segregation laws, seeking a constitutional ruling on them. However, attorneys agreed to produce testimony on only two of the acts, one creating the Sovereignty Commission, the other giving it powers.

Williams upheld a continuous stream of objections from the Commission's attorneys when an attorney for the plaintiffs tried to force a state senator to tell why the commission was created.

Williams said several times he did not believe the legislature, Sen. Charles F. (Rip) Smith of West Memphis, could be questioned on the purpose of the law or why the legislators passed it.

McCullough Objected

Richard McCullough of Forrest City objected several times when U. Simpson Tate, Negro attorney from Dallas, asked Smith why the bills setting up the commission and powers were passed.

"The law speaks for itself," McCullough said. "We object because this witness cannot speak for the legislature."

Smith also refused to go into reasons behind creation of the

Research in Cancer Saves Many Lives

About 150,000 Americans are now being saved from cancer each year due to successful research and treatment, and 75,000 more could be saved annually if properly treated in time. Cancer may not give a warning signal until it is too late for cure, but an examination by a physician, before symptoms appear, may save your life.

The American Cancer Society is the only national voluntary health agency fighting cancer on three fronts. Through research, to find a better way to curb this dreaded disease, professional and public education, and service to cancer patients.

Cancer accounts for one in every six deaths in the United States. Last year 250,000 American deaths were due to cancer. These are big figures, even though the American Cancer Society and research are making progress in their fight to control cancer. Every citizen may and should have a part in this Cancer Crusade by seeing your doctor regularly and contributing to the great cause.

Minstrel Opens Thurs. Night at High School

The 15th annual Kiwanis Minstrel Show will be held at Hope High School auditorium April 10-11 with all proceeds going to finance the youth program in Hope.

This highly success show has raised thousands of dollars in the past 16 years, most of which has been spent for the youth of Hope.

Practice Storm Alert Is Set for 10 a.m. Thursday

Victor Cobb, director of the Hempstead County Storm Warning System, says a full scale practice alert will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow morning for this area.

Cobb says an imaginary storm will be reported at approximately 10 a. m. and will be followed by spotters in its path and the warning system will make proper alarms as previously outlined.

Cobb said that only the spotters affected and one other person knows the path of the storm. Officials and the public will not know either the nature or the course of the imaginary storm until it develops.

Forecasters will start at KXAT at 7 a. m. tomorrow morning and will continue until the storm alert arrives at 10 a. m. The full warning system will then go into operation and Cobb urges all schools, industries, and the entire public to turn on their radio, not only to obtain a better understanding of the manner in which the storm warning will work, but also to give thought to their own safety had the storm been real rather than imaginary.

Cobb said that officials will meet after the first practice alert to find any corrective measures that need to be made in the system. Many spotters over the county and a large number of state, county and city officials will take part in the alert.

Ask China for Terms for Korean Peace

WASHINGTON (UP)—The 18 United Nations Allies who fought in Korea called on Communist China today to state in plain words its terms for peaceful unification of Korea.

They welcomed Red China's proposal of Feb. 7 to end the division of Korea and the withdrawal of troops and nationwide supervised free elections.

But they said it is not clear just what the Communists mean.

The United States made public the views of the Korean War Allies in a State Department announcement. It said Britain has been asked to present the Allied position to the Peiping government in a diplomatic note.

The Communists have proposed withdrawal of foreign troops from North and South Korea followed by elections supervised by a "neutral nations" commission. The U.N. Allies want any unification election to be supervised by a U.N. appointed commission.

The State Department said doubt stemmed from "a variety of statements" made by North Korean representatives in Peiping and Moscow. For one thing, it noted, the North Korean representatives said international supervision "should not intervene in the elections."

The Allies, it said, also want to know whether the Communists will accept supervision "not only of the preliminaries but also of the elections themselves."

All Around Town

Hempstead citizens living in the east and northeast of the county have petitioned Judge U. G. Garrett requesting him to blacktop six miles of road.

B. J. Ellis, Noland Township spokesman for the group, reports 110 signatures on the petition.

The designated road starts at the University of Arkansas Experiment Station at the north end of State road 194, continues northeast along old Highway 67, over and across Garland creek, thence north along a farm-to-market road to the old Washington - Prescott road at Burke's store.

The group plans to seek assistance from the Hope Chamber of Commerce in getting the route paved.

February sales of U. S. Savings Bonds in Hempstead totaled $43,301, making the two-month total $83,284 or 10.5 per cent of the $794,000 quota, according to Chairman Syd McMath.

Howard L. Dickinson reports $29,097 February sales, $40,070 for year to date of the $140,000 quota.

C. C. Cabel said February's February sales were $24,410, the year to date sales are $27,740, which is 24.7 per cent of the $112,000 quota.

Dale Tedder, better of Nevada reports sales of $17,410 brought the year's total to $45,625 or 32.1 per cent of the $142,000 quota.

The Health Department statistics show 10 babies born in Hempstead during the past month, only five girls as compared to 11 boys.

There were three white girls and four white boys as compared to two Negro girls and seven Negro boys.

President Sees No Need to Act on Cutting Taxes

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, optimistic about a business upturn, says the American people today a one-word prescription for fighting the recession: "Buy."

He said consumers should buy "anything" — but not carelessly. They should be selective and make sure they get what they need and want.

The President scolded manufacturers for what he called chucking things down peoples' throats. He said that this is partly to blame for the public's reluctance to buy; that it is time manufacturers woke up and gave the people what they want.

He plugged his "buy" campaign at his weekly news conference which was highlighted by less other remarks on the economic outlook.

—Figures he has seen on employment, savings and credit afford real grounds for believing the nation's economy will lift the upgrade one of these days. But would not say when that might be.

—These economic factors do not require a decision at this time on such emergency action as cutting taxes. He is keeping the matter under study, but indicated it could be several months before it is decided whether a tax cut is necessary.

—A further deepening of the recession would cause a decline of U.S. prestige abroad.

—It is not unusual for living costs to go up during a recession, although he wished this were not so.

The President's conference came amid signs that the administration's anti-recession program is taking hold.

He told his news conference that economic figures he has seen, including those on unemployment Tuesday, in his opinion do not require a tax-cutting decision at the moment.

The Labor and Commerce departments reported Tuesday that March unemployment rose 25,000 to 5,198,000 while employment rose 323,000.

The President said he is keeping the tax matter under constant study but indicated that it could be several months before a decision is made to cut taxes—it that becomes necessary.

Urges People to Buy

He pointed out that there are 62 million "people with jobs, that the public has a great amount of savings and that the Federal Reserve Board has taken actions to ease credit. The President said this led him to the conclusion that there are real grounds for believing the nation's economy is going on the upgrade one of these days. But he said he would not say when.

When a reporter asked what the people could do about the recession, the President gave a clipped one-word answer—buy.

When the reporter asked what they should buy, the President said—anything. However, he said he did not mean that people should buy carelessly, but should do so selectively, and get what they want.

He laid part of the blame on the public's reluctance to buy on what he called manufacturers chucking things down peoples' throats. He said it was time for manufacturers to wake up and begin giving the people what they want.

Minut End Nuclear Tests

In other highlights of the news conference, the President:

- Strongly defended his sweeping defense reorganization plan. He said he didn't see any sense at all to charges that it would make a car out of Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy. He heartily said that he is going to fight his utmost in an effort to get congressional approval for the plan. He said that he would go on the television to make nationwide speeches in support of it as often as the networks would let him, if it became necessary.

Faubus Keeps Out of Thomas Proposal

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus continued his hands-off policy today toward the proposal Monday by Herbert Thomas Sr. for a commission to work out the racial problem in Arkansas schools.

"This is an area where a few people are not going to speak for the masses," the governor said today. "I don't think it would have much effect for me, or a few others who sometimes assume they speak for the masses, to take a stand now."

Faubus said he talked to the State Board of Education for three or four minutes Monday. He said he did not have a chance to go into Thomas' proposal with them. Thomas, a Little Rock insurance executive, asked the Board to name a commission of white and Negro leaders to work out school integration problems at the local level.

Commission.
"I couldn't answer that without going into the committee hearings and arguments on the floor, and I think the Constitution of the state prohibits this gentleman (Tate) from asking me," Smith said.

Tate called McCullough to the stand and questioned him as to his reasons for drafting the bill setting up the Commission and giving it its powers.

Implement Court

McCullough said his purpose was to implement the 1955 Supreme Court ruling which threw out the separate but equal doctrine to segregated schools. He said the problems mentioned in the bills creating the Commission were those set out by Chief Justice Earl Warren in his majority opinion in the history-making decision.

He objected when Tate tried to pin him down as to the reasons. Williams sustained McCullough. McCullough, counsel for the Commission, said he presented a resolution of interposition for approval by the people also to implement the Supreme Court decision. He and others drafted the resolution after a trip to Virginia to study its plan.

McCullough said he could not remember just what he discussed with the attorney general of Virginia on the trip, except that their talks concerned the Supreme Court decision.

Rejects Auto Insurance Increase

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—State Insurance Commissioner Harvey Combs Tuesday rejected a request for an increase on private automobile liability insurance rates.

He said the companies got a 14.7 per cent rate increase last year and not enough time has gone by to show the result of the increase. The request also called for a separate district, with rates about 42 per cent higher than in the rest of the state, for areas along major highways in the east part of the state.

918 New Post Offices to Be Constructed

WASHINGTON (UP)—Construction of 918 new post office buildings is under way or will begin by early fall, Postmaster General Arthur F. Summerfield announced Tuesday.

The buildings will cost an estimated $49,245,000.

Summerfield said 13 of the new post offices at an estimated cost of $9,100,000 will be built under the provisions of the lease-purchase law. Under this program the government buys the structures by paying for them over a period of 40 years.

The 885 other buildings, costing an estimated $40,145,000, will be constructed under the department's easing program. Under this program, the post offices are built by private capital and leased to the department.

Summerfield said funds needed to equip the new post offices under the leasing program are presently available from authorized appropriations.

He added, in a statement, that the 905 proposed new leased post offices represent less than 10 per cent of the department's "urgent needs" for new facilities.

He sent the statement, along with an accompanying letter urging approval of a proposed postal rate increases, to members of Congress.

He said that if the postal rate bill now pending before Congress were enacted into law, revenues received from the 5-cent out-of-town letter mail would provide 175 million dollars a year in new funds to purchase equipment for additional thousands of "badly needed new post offices."

Mary Pickersgill sewed the flag that flew over Fort McHenry and inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner."

Rock, an attorney for the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, said the bureau will appeal Combs' decision.

Wright said the increase was needed because the cost of repairs has gone up, along with hospital and medical expenses and jury awards to persons injured in accidents.

Rules Set Up for Rabbit Raisers

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON (UP)—The federal government is setting up new rules to keep rabbit breeders from going overboard in their claims.

The Federal Trade Commission plans to lay down formal trade practice rules for rabbit raisers soon. The commission held a hearing with leading industry members this week to discuss revision of regulations dating back to 1934.

One of the main proposals would crack down on the tendency of breeders to exaggerate rabbits' ability to reproduce.

One of the eight proposed rules says "in effect it is an 'unfair trade practice' for any industry member to represent, directly or by implication, that any rabbits, hares or other rabbit types 'are more prolific' than is the case. Other regulations call for curbs on "misleading or deceptive" claims about the grade, quality, quantity, age, pedigree, health, strength, growth, size, productivity and breeding of rabbits.

Setting the style trend

There's a lot of Thunderbird in every Ford Station Wagon. All six Ford wagons have styling inspired by the new 4-passenger Thunderbird. You'll see it in the trim, sculptured lines and in the impressive front and rear treatment. It's style that sets the style.

Reversing the price trend

Ford made price news everywhere by being the only car in its field to reduce prices in '58. While prices of other cars went UP, Ford made big news by actually pricing some '58 models below comparable '57 models. What's more, Ford offers the lowest-priced Tudor, Fordor, Convertible and Station Wagon of the low-price three.

With Cruise-O-Matic, 58's answer to the chauffeur short. Cruise-O-Matic is the newest, most versatile automatic transmission yet. It's like having a built-in chauffeur to shift gears for you. Try it today!

Most Arkansas

seeding will be "considerably less than normal" in many counties. Grass is beginning to grow on hay fields carried over from last year.

Preparation of seedbeds for rice is going forward as weather and soil conditions permit. Little land has been prepared so far for soybeans.

Strawberries are coming into bloom, much later than normal, the report said. Beds are in excellent condition, however, and plants are healthy, showing good growth. There was little blooming during the winter to weaken the plants, the bulletin said.

Late Blooms Endangered
"The potential production may be reduced somewhat as late blooms are in danger of being caught by hot weather," the bulletin added.

Heavy movement of spring spinach is expected during the next two weeks in the west-central section, Crawford county reports half of the acreage of other greens has been planted. Tomato plants are not doing well in cold frames. Transplanting to fields will soon be under way in south Arkansas.

Boysenberry canes are making good growth.

Peaches were in full bloom by the middle of last week in the Nashville area and soon will be in bloom in the Johnson-Pope and Crowley Ridge areas. Some growers are spraying and dusting trees in the Nashville area. The bud set was exceptionally good, and an excellent peach crop is in prospect over the entire state.

Clover, rye grass and wheat are beginning to grow and will soon furnish good grazing. Cattle came through the winter in only fair condition, but should put on flesh as spring pastures become available. Some herds are heavily infested with lice, the report said.

The supply of farm labor is adequate to excessive. Wet soil has limited the demand for tractor drivers, and workers laid off by industries are seeking employment on farms in some areas.

GOP Hopeful Suffers a Setback

CHICAGO (UP)—Cpy. William G. Stratton, considered in some quarters as 1960 Republican vice presidential timber, suffered a setback today when his choice for the state treasurer's nomination was upset by a GOP factional foe.

The Republican treasurer's race highlighted an otherwise dull primary, the first in the nation for 1958. The election also saw the fatal shooting of a berserk gunman who threatened voters in a Chicago polling place.

On the basis of unofficial returns in the treasurer race from 7,092 of the state's 9,639 precincts, Warren Wright had 212,842 votes to 179,202 for Louis Beckman, the GOP "organization" choice for the post.

The light vote Tuesday, one of the lowest totals in state history, was blamed on a lack of national issues. It appeared the total vote would be under the record low of the World War II year of 1944 when only 1,428,005 persons cast ballots.

Besides state treasurer, voters nominated candidates for state superintendent of public instruction, Congress, and state senators and representatives.

Only three of the state's 23 incumbent congressmen, all downstate Republicans, had opposition and they won handily. They were Reps. Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, Leo E. Allen of Galena, and Robert B. Chipfield of Canton.

hind Old Doors."

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the group voted to pay for two luncheons at the church.

The president, Mrs. Smith dismissed the group with prayer.

EAGERLY AWAITING the opening of a "Golden Rule" store (as the first Penney stores were called) are customers attracted by the business principles of the then small chain of Penney stores. Then, as now, people were interested in buying the best quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices. Penney's believed in selling for cash, avoiding such overhead expenses as charge accounts and delivery costs and passing the savings along to customers in the form of lower prices. Charging a fair profit and giving customers intelligent, courteous service were two more reasons why Penney's rapidly grew through the years until today there are nearly 1700 stores in the 48 states.

DOROTHY DIX

Must a Handicap Nip Romantic Initiative?

Dear Dorothy Dix: I read your column every day but never would have thought I would be so unsure of something as to have to ask for help. Well, here is my tale of woe. I'm a young widow and go with Eric, a handsome man whom I have known for eight years. However, I married someone else, who was killed in Korea. Some months after my husband's death, Eric and I met for the first time in three years, and renewed our friendship, then our romance. Eric has a disability dating from the second World War, but has become a successful businessman in spite of it. However, he seems to have acquired a whopping inferiority complex. When he's around other people he's too loud, too joking and too life-of-the-party. When we're alone he is completely and devastatingly charming. My problem is that he seems to want me to do all the work in our relationship. He never suggests anything to do, any place to go, or any people to visit. Everything must be my idea. He doesn't even come to see me except by invitation. Does this sound like a man in love? Does he act this way because of his handicap? Should I be patient or toss in the sponge? DOUBTFUL DELLA

Dear Doubtful Della: Eric is almost 35, a successful businessman in spite of a severe handicap and sure, old enough to find his way around. Romantically, his failure to respond to your warm heartiness would certainly indicate that he's not in love. If you marry him and continue your present role as chief organizer of everything from love life to finances, the marriage could be reasonably successful, but I certainly wouldn't recommend it. You're a young lady of great ability, unusual character, and with a talent for thinking things through. You want a man who will spur you on, help develop your talents, take pride in your accomplishments. You want more than to be a prop for a husband's indecisiveness. Eric doesn't seem to be the man for you, Della.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend and I broke up because I went home from a dance with another boy. How can I get him back?

B. B.
Dear B. B.: Ever hear of the word "ap-o-l-o-g-i-z-e"? You broke a cardinal rule of dating and etiquette in general by going to a party with one boy and returning with another. You always go home with "the guy what brung you," to paraphrase an old song.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My steady is a young man of 17 with a weakness for other girls. When we go out together he can't resist flirting. Do you think I should say something to him? He may take it the wrong way and break off with me. I wouldn't like that.

JONESY
Dear Jonesy: You've got to take a chance once in a while, girl. Live dangerously. Tell your roving Romeo that you don't think he's quite ready for steady dating, and turn him loose. You'll lose him as a steady but keep him as a friend, which is the way it should be.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I belong to a "buddy" and attend meetings every Monday night. My steady says she should be allowed to go out with her girl friends on that night. She further says that it's either that or a breakup. DON

Dear Don: Whether or not you are tied up on Monday nights, your girl friend should not give up the companionship of her own sex. You're being very exacting and dictatorial to make such demands on the girl. You've got a possessive, jealous streak that should be wiped out before she gets any more serious over you.

A Plymouth Colony record of 1833 mentions card playing among the Puritans.

Petitions Filed With the PSC

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Two petitions, one asking for assignment of a company to serve southeast Boone county, were filed with the Public Service Commission Monday.

The petition for the service to Boone county asked that the Boone County Telephone Company of Harrison be named as the one to put lines into the area. Tri-County Telephone Company of Everton and the Boone County Company wanted the service.

The petition was signed by 145 residents of the area. The other petition asked the commission to approve transfer of assets and facilities of the Wicks Telephone Company to Wicks Telephone Company, Inc.

J. N. Odum and W. L. Odum, owner of the company, submitted the petition. They explained they wanted the commission to recognize incorporation of the company so that they could meet requirements of the Rural Electrification Administration for a loan to finance improvements.

Last Red Moon May Plunge Soon

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—The United States may be the only nation with satellites circling the earth since the fall of Sputnik II, carrying the body of the dog, Lanka, the world's first space traveler. Whipple said this satellite might burst apart during its plunge through the lower atmosphere because of the action of air tanks that were used to keep the dog alive for more than a week. If it falls at night, Sputnik II will look like a flaming meteorite, while a daytime plunge would leave a plume of smoke.

Arkansas is one of the few states of the Union that boasts five major soil types.

NAACP Is Against Plan to Settle Issue

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Thomas plan to solve the integration impasse in Arkansas drew strong words of opposition today from spokesmen for both integration and segregation groups.

The Rev. Wesley Pruden of Little Rock, president of the Capital Citizens Council, and Amis Guthridge, a leader in organization of the Council, rejected the Thomas plan as unacceptable.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said it was not workable.

Non-committal on the proposed plan was Gov. Orval E. Faubus. He indicated to newsmen that he would take a "hands-off" attitude toward the Thomas plan. He said it was of "prime importance" what the masses of the people think, and of little import what he or a few individuals think.

Total Segregation
In a prepared statement, Pruden said the NAACP condemned the plan because it wants "total and immediate integration in every field." Since the Capital Citizens Council is an organization dedicated to the preservation of "total and complete segregation" and since the Thomas plan is one of "gradual integration," Pruden said "we are... opposed to it."

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The state leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday night rejected a plan calling for a commission to settle school desegregation problems.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, NAACP state president, said the plan of Herbert L. Thomas Sr. for a committee is not workable because it "seeks to hang indefinitely in abeyance the rights which Negro children are being denied."

Thomas asked the state board of education to work out ways to desegregate schools. He said part of his plan would be for all court suits attacking segregation to be withdrawn.

Mrs. Bates said she saw little difference in his suggestion from the Little Rock school board's plan for a delay in integration. The board asked for the delay because it said people are not ready to accept desegregation.

Mrs. Bates said Thomas asked for tolerance and understanding but Negro people have been tolerant and understanding for generations.

"We have fought throughout the school crisis on a high plane and will continue to do so until every vestige of discrimination is removed," she said.

Rev. Roland Smith, one of 19 Negro ministers who started a federal court suit attacking the state's sovereignty commission, said the plan is "unacceptable and opposed to by an overwhelming majority of Negroes in Little Rock and Arkansas."

The president of the Little Rock School Board, Wayne Upton, said if the plan brought together the opposing factions, "it would be an outstanding service to the community and the state."

Johnson Is Against New Proposal

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Segregationist Jim Johnson today opposed the proposal of Herbert Thomas Sr. for a commission to work out a system to desegregate the schools.

Johnson, a former state senator from Crossett, said the plan would not work because of opposition from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"You're going to find -- and he will, of course -- they don't want anything voluntary. They've got a court decision and they're going to ride it," Johnson said.

He opposed it himself, he said, because "to sit down means inaction."

"I see a beautiful thought of everybody loving everybody. When you don't have an answer, you appoint a committee. My experience in the legislature showed me that," he explained.

Johnson said the plan would not affect his drive for a constitutional amendment setting up a state's rights commission.

"It will make us redouble our efforts," he said.

One problem, he said, was that Thomas wanted to condition people to accept desegregation.

"I say it will be a hundred years before he can condition the people of Little Rock to accept desegregation," he predicted.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the NAACP declined to comment on the plan until she had read it. So did Amis Guthridge, Little Rock attorney and advisor to the Citizens Council.

Guthridge said he had not talked with Thomas, nor had Mrs. Margaret Jackson, president of the Mothers' League of Central High.

Thanks a Million, Neighbor!

The towns of Blevins and McCaskill have never enjoyed the benefits of natural gas and for the past thirty-five years the citizens of these communities have endeavored to obtain this service.

Through the efforts of the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Company these communities will now be able to take advantage of this economical, efficient fuel and we, the undersigned customers in the Blevins - McCaskill area, wish to thank the Company for these efforts. Through their foresightedness and faith in our people we feel that we are now in a position to enjoy a better way of life and attract industry to our communities which will improve the economy of the entire area.

Springdale Safe Robbery Nets $125

SPRINGDALE (UP)—What appeared to be professional safe-crackers blasted safes of five firms on Produce Row here sometime last night, and got off with about $125.

State Police Lieut. Doug Morris and Springdale city police listed the firms as Ted Saum and Co., and the Jeff D. Brown Co., both feed and hatchery dealers; the S. and E. Wholesale Grocery Co., the Farmers Cooperative, and the office of Roy C. Ritter.

They took about $100 from the Ritter safe and about $24 from the Farmers Cooperative safe.

Their apparent last job was at the Jeff D. Brown Co., where they were routed by tear gas bombs in the safe. They left their tools and fled.

Morris said officers had no clues as to their identity or their present whereabouts. He said the men must have been professionals.

The safe-crackers entered the firm by breaking glass windows and doors. The robberies were discovered today when employees opened for business.

GIANT BERG SIGHTED
LONDON (UP)—Moscow Radio said today that a giant iceberg—possibly "the largest discovered in our century"—has been spotted by the Soviet antarctic expedition near the Shackleton Glacier. The iceberg was estimated to be 54 miles long, 18 miles wide and 12 feet high.

Plant Workers Entitled to Compensation

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court said today 24 employees at the International Shoe Company plant at Malvern are entitled to unemployment benefits for a two-week period in 1954 when the plant shut down for vacations.

The court said the workers should get the pay because Local Union No. 2685 of the United Textile Workers of America and the company did not have a provision in their contract which allowed a shutdown period at the option of the management.

"We hold that under the contract, these 24 appellees are entitled to unemployment compensation," said the opinion by Justice Ed F. McFaddin. "This is true because there was no provision in the contract whereby the shoe company had the right to close down its entire plant for a vacation period at any time it elected."

The Supreme Court by its opinion upheld a Hot Spring Circuit Court decision, which had been appealed by Commissioner of Labor C. R. Thornbrough to obtain a definite rule on the question. The Supreme Court said the company had reserved the right to fix a plant-wide vacation period; then the workers would have been voluntarily unemployed and not entitled to employment benefits.

In another case, the court upheld the Workmen's Compensation Commission in saying Dan Ed Walden met death Feb. 29, 1958, while working for United Steel Workers of America.

"There are, we think, facts and circumstances which could lead to no other reasonable inference than the one reached by the commission," the court said in an opinion by Justice Paul Ward.

Walden at the time of his death was a negotiator for the union. His body was found near his car in an abandoned mining pit near Bauxite.

The union contended he was not working for it at the time because he had stopped at a cafe after a negotiation meeting. But the court disagreed because the cafe was visited frequently by union members and because Walden had stopped with a member of the union.

The case had been appealed from the Saline Circuit Court by the union, after the lower court said the union should pay an award to Walden's widow, Mrs. Nedgie Walden.

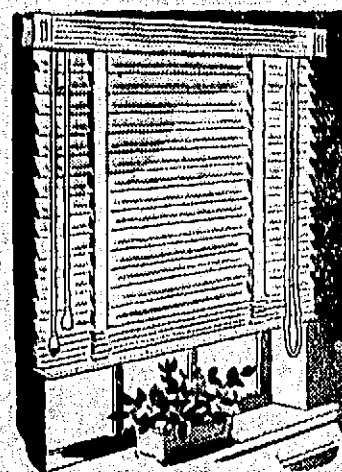

Although Sigmund Romberg, famous composer, was born in Hungary, his career as a composer began after he came to the United States.

NEW YORK (UP)—I've seen a lot of things in New York's great showcase Coliseum, but I never expected to be introduced to a $18,000 Rolls-Royce that makes up into a double bed.

This is absolutely on the level.
The thing has seats that fold in all directions. Single beds, double bed, lounge chair. You fold the back seat forward and the whole back section becomes an extension of the luggage compartment
— space for 13 suitcases.

Its glass partition between front

night in overtime. Bob Beckett's second goal of the game, coming at 2:44 of the overtime period, was the decisive tally as the Indians took the series, four games to three.

Marion Just Can't Quit Baseball

TODAY'S SPORTS
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By STAN MOCKLER
United Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Marty Mari- on, the man who played shortstop like Paderewski played the piano, just cannot get away from baseball.

Marion, nicknamed "Slats" be- cause of his architecture and "Mr. Shortstop" because of his mobility, was named in the market for a National Franchise.

But the project, in which he was joined by a business associate, ran into numerous snags and he has now given up the idea. And the lure of baseball has finally tempted him back into the game
— in the unlikely role of manager of the Concordia Seminary team.

Enthusiastic as Always
Marty, who managed the Chicago
White Sox, the St. Louis Cardinals and the now defunct Browns in the big time, has attacked college baseball, orphan of the sports pages, with his usual enthusiasm.

Pete Pederson, Concordia's at- tletic director, broached the idea to Marion and his salary, if there is any, is small enough to be called honorarium.

Concordia, whose athletes are in- evitably known as the Preachers, has an excellent reputation as an cubator of big-leaguers. Max
Cavey, the old-time base stealer,
Dick Sibert, Connie Mack's fine
first baseman, and Bill Wambach, co-manager of triple-play fame, are all Concordia alumni.

But the college game, like the big-time version, is not without its headaches.

Anti-Climactic Venture
Marty's first venture, against Culver-Stockton of Missouri, was anti-climactic. Before it was rained out, his third base coach, eager to give it the big-league
touch, asked if he should "Flash
'em the signals."

Marion, who learned something of base-path confusion when Senor Mique Gonzales was handling the third base chores for the Cards, decided to play it by ear.

"No, just yell at 'em to run or hold the base," he said.

The contest was washed out shortly thereafter, and Marty's collegiate baptism of fire was postponed until last Monday. That was exactly what it turned out to be.

The Preachers dropped their opponent to Luther College of Decorah, Iowa, 9-0.

Snow, heavy rains and gale force winds in the Midwest were tightly sandwiched in between two broad sunny areas today on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

An active low pressure area in the southern Plains touched off snowfalls in the Rockies spreading eastward to Nebraska where seven inches of new snow were reported at one point. Further south, winds up to 71 miles per hour whipped through El Paso, Tex.

The U.S. Weather Bureau re- ported that heavy rains pelted central Oklahoma and north central Texas during the night. Many points received a half-inch of rain or more.

Earlier in the storm, which be- gan Tuesday, severe thunderstorm and possible tornado warnings had been issued for parts of central Texas. Livestock owners in the north central Plains had been warned against wet snow and cold rain.

Although there had been some light showers in the Pacific Northwest, elsewhere in the nation it was pleasantly calm. Snow flurries were reported along a strip from to lower Great Lakes into New England, but no appreciable amounts fell.

Today's forecast showed clear ing skies in the far Northwest, bringing a fair-weather picture
west of the Continental Divide.
Snow mixed with rain continued from the Rockies and was expected to spread through the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley

by nightfall.

THE STORY. Lily Barker Alderton reveals to Tom Weber that she has written to a gun fighter, Tom Fargo, hoping to hire him to protect her ranch, which is being robbed by rustlers. Tom Weber actually is Tom Fargo, but Lily does not know this.

XIV

"But why? You're not doing anything here. You said you didn't ever know if you'd stay." "Somebody's trying to buy-whack me, I can't keep my eyes open every minute of the day and night. Sooner or later, they'll get me."

"You'd be safe on Lobo. There are never less than 20 men at the home ranch."

"The bullet may come from behind a rock, a tree, any house or shack that I pass. I might get it in Barkerville."

Lily looked at him in disappointment, then a thought occurred to her and her eyes lit up.

"You said Rawlins—they wanted this ranch. They're after you because of it. All right, suppose you didn't own the ranch? They wouldn't want to kill you then."

"I don't figure on being forced to sell."

"Sell to me! I'll give you what ever you ask. Then you can come to work for me."

Weber shook his head. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Alderton."

"Don't call me Mrs. Alderton! The violence of her outburst shook even Lily. Her hand flew to her mouth and she inhaled sharply."

Weber said stiffly, "Your name's Alderton, isn't it?"

She turned back to her horse, mounted and as she turned the animal she was aware that he was following her.

He said, "I think you meant well, but I've got to play out the game, I'm sorry—Lily."

She had ridden a dozen feet before the name "Lily" penetrated. She swiveled in the saddle, then, looked back. But he had already turned away.

Weber entered the bank and found Marshall Eads.

"I understand you've got a letter for Tom Fargo," Weber said.

Eads shot a quick look over his shoulder and said in a low tone, "She told you?"

"Yes."

"I didn't tell her you were Tom Fargo."

"Neither did I. But I'd like to have the letter."

Eads hesitated, then took a folded envelope from his pocket.

"Here—read it, but don't go away. I want to talk to you."

Weber read:

Dear Mr. Fargo:

I can use your services and even if you have already taken another job, I will double what you are now getting. Do not take time to write me, but come at once, as your services are urgently needed.

Lily Barker Alderton
Owner of Lobo Ranch
Barkerville

Weber refolded the letter, put it back in the envelope and stowed it away in his pocket.

"I'll see you later," Weber said.

Weber walked quickly out of the bank.

The Lobo was Mike Denver's saloon. The place was not more than 20 feet wide and some 50 feet deep. A bar ran down the length of one side and was attended by three bartenders.

There were larger saloons in Barkerville, but none did as much business as The Lobo.

Although it was midmorning when Weber entered, there was scarcely room at the bar and several card games were in progress at the tables that filled up the rest of the room.

Two men made room for him at the bar and as he stepped into the opening a bartender looked at him inquiringly.

"Beer," Weber said.

At Weber's right was a mild-looking, tawny-skinned man of about 45, Leo Blatnik. Blatnik gave him a covert look or two, hesitated, then as Weber finished his glass of beer, he said in a slightly accented voice, "Can I buy you another beer, Mr. Weber?"

"Why?"

Blatnik was discomfited by Weber's bluntness. "We are related by marriage, I believe. My name is Leo Blatnik and my sister is your father's wife."

"In that case, Weber said, "get my father to drink with you."

Blatnik winced as if struck by Weber's fist. "You are wrong about your father. He does not drink."

"In his time he drank enough to pickle a herd of Longhorns."

"You are a hard man, Mr. Weber."

"Beer," Weber said.

During his altercation with Blatnik, two men had entered the saloon and were sizing up the line along the bar. Paul Partridge and Tate Hopkins. Hopkins said something in Partridge out of the side of his mouth and the two men advanced.

Weber expected them to accost him but they faced Leo Blatnik. Paul Partridge took the aggressive. "Your name's Blatnik, isn't it?"

"Blatnik."

"All right, Blatnik. You've been sounding off about the cattlemen. Claim we been cutting your wire."

"You have," declared Blatnik. "Two times this week."

"And you haven't been doing anything. Then how come we find a Rawlins steer butchered near your place and the hide in your woodshed?"

"If you find a hide in my woodshed you put it there," cried Blatnik.

"You calling me a liar?"

Blatnik realized suddenly that he had been led into a trap and tried to extricate himself. "I do not want any trouble."

"You got trouble, Mister," snapped Tate Hopkins.

Unemployment Reaches Total of 5.1 Million

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Government officials said today unemployment rose 25,000 in March to its highest point in 18½ years—5,108,000. But the increase was the smallest since the current recession began last fall.

It was down considerably from the 700,000 jump in February and the one million-plus rise in January.

This sharp decline in the jobless rate, plus a pickup in spring outdoor work, led to the first increase since last October in the total number of Americans working.

Employment, officials said, rose by about 300,000 last month to approximately 62,288,000. The figure for October was 62 million. In July, just before the recession began, it was a record 67,200,000.

Statement by Mitchell
The Labor Department was scheduled to announce the statistics on last month's job picture at noon. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell planned to issue a statement later on the figures.

Mitchell was expected to hail the improved employment situation as a sign that the recession is easing. President Eisenhower said March 26 he believed "we are going through the worst of it right now," and Mitchell has predicted a general economic upturn by mid-year.

The President called his principal economic advisers to the White House this morning for a conference. They included Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson; Federal Reserve Board Chairman William (Mac) Martin Jr.; Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and Dr. Gabriel Hauge, assistant on economic affairs.

Lower Food Prices
In Milwaukee Monday night, a Labor Department official told American housewives they can expect lower food prices with the arrival of spring crops. Food prices have been at an all-time high, their usual decline at this time of year delayed by winter crop freezes.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, also said the prices of new cars, refrigerators, television sets and other appliances will begin sliding down before 1939 models go on sale.
